Men at Ease presents a selection of photographic portraits from Aboriginal (Larrakia) artist Gary Lee which spans the 17 years since he began his ongoing series Nice Coloured Boys, and culminating with work from his latest cross-cultural series On the Verge. With an unstinting desire to celebrate and re-define male beauty and identity, Lee's portraits challenge perceptions about Aboriginal/coloured/'third world' masculinities and the parameters of Aboriginal art.

Curated by Maurice O'Riordan.
