The Sandover river runs through the heart-lands of the Alyawarr, its wide sandy bed and deep rooted river gums have long been a trading route and hunting grounds for the Alyawarr; like a snake, this dry river bed, winds it way across the land.

The journey's of the Ancestors, their deeds and resting places also criss-cross this country, paths that are sacred, marking the land in a divine geometry of ancient stories and myths.

Caterpillar, Possum, Bush Plum, Kangaroo and Emu, Dingo and Echidna each with its own story and sign; the mark of all life, sits upon a canvas of red earth, where all journey's are recorded. ~ Narayan Kozeluh
